Gold Bull Appoints Walt Coles as Director

Vancouver, B.C., September 21, 2020. Gold Bull Resources Corp. (TSX-V: GBRC) (“Gold Bull” or the “Company”) is pleased to announce it has appointed Mr. Walter Coles to the Company’s Board of Directors.

Gold Bull Chairman Craig Parry commented, “As Gold Bull continues on its path of building a major US focused gold company, we are fortunate to have someone of Walter’s caliber join our Board. His broad business background and track record of success at Skeena Resource will undoubtedly benefit the company and our shareholders as we chart our growth strategy for the months and years ahead.”

Mr. Coles is currently CEO of Skeena Resources, which acquired the past producing Snip and Eskay Creek gold mines from Barrick. Mr. Coles has served as CEO for several Toronto Stock Exchange listed junior mining exploration and development companies, throughout the past 13 years. Mr. Coles entered the mining business as part of an effort to develop a mineral resource discovered on family farmland in Virginia. He was previously an analyst for Cadence Investment Partners, a New York based investment fund. Prior to that Mr. Coles worked for UBS Investment Bank in New York as a Senior Research Analyst in the bank’s High Yield Group. Mr. Coles started his career at UBS Investment Bank in 1999 as an Associate reporting to the bank’s Global Head of Fixed Income Strategy. Mr. Coles holds a B.A. in Economics from the University of Richmond.
